

Definition

"Cookies" are small files stored by the browser on the user's computer or mobile device. They allow websites to remember information such as preferences, device type, and other settings, thereby enhancing the browsing experience. Some cookies are deleted at the end of the session (session cookies), while others remain stored (persistent cookies). Privacy regulations are governed by Legislative Decree No. 196 of June 30, 2003, as amended in accordance with Directives 2009/136/EC and 2009/140/EC.

Consent

The website www.torinoeuprojects.it uses only strictly necessary cookies for site functionality and performance-enhancing cookies, such as those that remember the user's language (which are deleted at the end of the session). No profiling cookies, either first-party or third-party, are used. Therefore, no prior consent via banner is required - only this notice is provided.

Disabling Cookies

You can configure your browser to accept all cookies, only some, or block them entirely. However, disabling cookies may limit certain website functionalities. Below are instructions for the most common browsers:

- Internet Explorer 8.0+: Tools > Internet Options > Privacy > Block all cookies.
- Firefox 4.0+: Tools > Options > Privacy > Enable "Do Not Track".
- Chrome: Chrome menu > Settings > Show advanced settings > Privacy > Content settings > Block third-party cookies.
- Safari 5.0+: Safari menu > Preferences > Privacy > Block cookies (choose from always, never, or only from third parties).

Disabling Google Analytics

To prevent data collection by Google Analytics, a browser add-on is available for download: Google Analytics Opt-out.
